Two More Bases Fall to Communist Troops

N. Viets Continue Offensive Drive

FLEEING THE ENEMY—South Viet soldier carries his wounded baby daughter from Quang Tri City, South Vietnam in wake of long-awaited North Vietnamese and Viet Cong offensive launched over weekend. (UPI PHOTO BY WILLIE VICOY)

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese troops using amphibious tanks breached the main South Vietnamese defense line eight miles below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) today and crossed the Cua Viet River despite heavy U.S. air strikes.

The South Vietnamese defenders of the naval base at the mouth of the river abandoned their fleet of junks to the Communist hordes and fled southward. Another force of Communists swept out of the Annamite foothills and captured Fire Base Anne, 18 miles west of the old imperial capital of Hue—the 13th and 14th bases lost in the five-day-old invasion.

Capture of Fire Base Anne brought an immediate threat to the city of Hue and to north-south Highway 1, the main government supply line to Quang Tri 30 miles to the north.

The five-day-old North Vietnamese invasion had been thought halted at the Dong Ha River but front dispatches said the troops, after receiving new supplies, pushed across the Cua Viet River five miles east of the town of Dong Ha and five miles inland from the coast. The Cua Viet is part of the Dong Ha River.

The river crossing and the capture of Fire Base Anne meant that the main government bastion of Quang Tri was now being menaced from all sides—from the north and east where the Communists crossed the river, from the west where Quang Tri gets its supplies, and from the south.

Quang Tri and Hue appeared to be major objectives of the Communist invasion. Hue was devastated in the 1968 Communist Tet offensive when North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces captured large areas of the city, third largest in Vietnam.

U.S. jet fighter-bombers swarming into the skies from ground bases and three aircraft carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin carried out hundreds of attacks on North Vietnamese troops in an effort to halt the advancing Communist tide.

"We have stopped them at the river," Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, commander of the five-province northern sector, told newsmen. Hours later, Communist troops using barges for their armored vehicles were crossing the Cua Viet River where they had been stalled for the past two days because of a lack of supplies.

UPI Correspondent Stewart Kellerman, reporting from Hue, said two battalions of North Vietnamese—about 1,000 men—lost about 200 of his own men killed and from 500 to

Nixon's Stance Is Unchanged

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon has ruled out for now the reintroduction of U.S. ground forces to repel the enemy thrust into South Vietnam.

But he is holding open his option of sending waves of American war planes against North Vietnamese targets.

The President's stance was reported by reliable sources after Nixon and his top advisers held an urgent round of conferences Monday to ponder ways of countering the strongest Communist push since Tet of 1968.

As the strategy sessions continue, administration spokesmen are stressing that turning back the Communist offensive is a "South Vietnamese operation."

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler used that phrase twice at a Monday briefing where he reported Nixon was "watching the situation very closely."

Ziegler also cited as "totally reflective of the over-all administration view" a statement by State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey that the North Vietnamese attack was an invasion across the demilitarized zone in violation of the 1966 "understanding" between the United States and North Vietnam.

That 1968 understanding—although never acknowledged by North Vietnam—led President Lyndon B. Johnson to suspend bombing raids deep into North Vietnamese territory.

The McCloskey Ziegler statements seemed to leave open the possibility of resuming U.S. air strikes well inside North Vietnam—a possibility later reinforced by disclosure of Nixon's position.

The sources' use of the word "reintroduction" in relation to U.S. ground forces apparently would allow Nixon to order remaining American combat troops to repulse any Communist attack on U.S. installations.

Nixon declared months ago that the U.S. ground-combat role had ended, and his reluctance to send U.S. troops into battle now fits with his expressed confidence that South Vietnam is prepared to withstand the long-expected Communist offensive.

Pentagon officials said seven U.S. combat maneuver battalions are still in Vietnam but are committed to the security of U.S. installations there.

Officials also said about 5,000 U.S. infantrymen are positioned at Da Nang, 70 miles south of the heavy fighting. But the U.S. commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, has ordered that they not be committed to the battle.

Total American troop strength in Vietnam is 95,500, lowest since August 1965, and will drop to 69,000 by May 1 under the Nixon withdrawal schedule—a plan which White House spokesmen said is unaffected by the current offensive.

Meanwhile, five days after the start of the long-awaited enemy offensive, the Pentagon is either unwilling or unable to say what's going on in Vietnam.

Official spokesmen acknowledged the obvious—that the North Vietnamese have launched an attack, that the weather is bad and the situation "is fluid." They said the offensive will not affect U.S. withdrawal. But they declined to say much else about ground combat.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim told reporters Monday that with the United States virtually out of the ground war the offensive is South Vietnam's show and details will have to come from Saigon. Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler expressed similar comments.

The attitude reflects what has now become U.S. policy—that it's South Vietnam's war despite the continued heavy U.S. air involvement.

And, with the Nixon administration trying to defuse the war as a political issue at home, it's talking less about it.

U.S. Bars Pressure

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is serving notice on Hanoi that President Nixon is not going to negotiate a peace settlement of the Indochina war under mounting military pressure from North Vietnam.

U.S. officials say Ambassador William Porter's return to Paris is open-ended and that the current North Vietnamese offensive does not argue for his early appearance at the conference table. Porter was summoned back to the United States shortly after Nixon suspended the Paris talks March 23.

State Department spokesman Robert S. McCloskey said Monday that the United States "remains prepared to talk, and to seriously negotiate in Paris, but

(we) do not intend to do so under military pressure."

This word, not previously stated as U.S. policy, apparently emerged from the special session of the Washington Special Action Group chaired by national security advisor Henry Kissinger.

The United States takes the position that the Paris talks were not broken off by this country but broke down while the North Vietnamese were undertaking to mount a military offensive in the South.

Nixon administration officials say the upsurge is a clear test for the South Vietnamese and the Vietnamization program.

There is sharp consciousness also over the political impact on the President in a campaign year. Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., already has claimed that the offensive proves the Vietnamization program will not work.

State and Defense Department officials who anticipated such an attack developing weeks ago during the Tet holiday say they are sure the measure of success cannot be determined in the first few days of the Communist offensive.

Among questions being raised: How far can the North Vietnamese forces get into South Vietnam? How much territory can they control? What will it cost them?

Some allied military observers here say that the North Vietnamese want to accomplish a hard assault before the Americans have lowered their strength any further in order to claim that they have driven U.S. forces out of South Vietnam.

Meanwhile, in Paris, the Viet Cong called on the United States today to return to the Vietnam peace talks on Thursday.

The Viet Cong delegation to the talks said it had sent a note to the American delegation saying: "We believe that the Paris Conference on Vietnam must continue its work as usual and that the 148th session of the conference must be held Thursday, April 6 at the usual hour."

There was no immediate comment from the U.S. delegation, which indefinitely suspended the talks March 23, charging that the Communist delegations were not negotiating seriously.

12 Democrats on Ballot

McGovern Favored in Wisconsin Primary

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—About 1.5 million Wisconsin voters are expected to cast ballots today in the state's presidential primary election. Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, a Democrat who has remained neutral, predicted Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota would be the Democratic winner.

A McGovern victory could thrust the South Dakotan into the front rank of his party's candidates, while a triumph by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota could help the Minnesotan overcome a "loser" image and gain recognition as the Democratic front-runner.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, conceding he needs "a miracle" to win, hoped to avoid a repetition of his fourth-place showing last month in Florida.

That state's winner, Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, hoped for a strong showing in Wisconsin that would demonstrate national appeal.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, third in Florida, and New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, fighting to keep his presidential candidacy alive, sought to crack the upper ranks ahead of McGovern, Humphrey or Muskie.

In all, 12 Democrats are on the primary ballot, along with three Republicans. President Nixon's expected to be an easy winner in the GOP race.

With no registration by party in Wisconsin, many Republicans were expected to cross over and vote in the Democratic contest. Wallace could be a major beneficiary of those votes.

Sixty-seven delegates to the Democratic National Convention will be chosen today

On the GOP ballot, where 28 delegates are being elected, Nixon was expected to swamp Reps. John M. Ashbrook, an Ohio conservative, and Paul N. McCloskey, a California liberal. McCloskey dropped out of the presidential race after the New Hampshire primary. Ashbrook didn't campaign here.

The most debated issue in the primary campaign was taxes. All the leading Democratic contenders called for reforms that would increase taxes on the wealthy and big corporations while easing them on the middle classes. Wisconsin has one of the highest property taxes in the nation.

Hijack Suspects at Large, Elude Area Authorities

By JON POWERS

SAUGERTIES Two men believed to have been involved in a recent New York truck hijacking eluded police in Ulster County Monday after a wild high-speed chase near Saugerties.

The two men are reportedly wanted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Authorities said the men are armed and should be considered extremely dangerous.

FBI authorities said today that a warrant is outstanding for the arrest of the two men in connection with the recent hijacking.

A 1965 tan Buick Electra convertible that police believe is owned by one of the hijackers was reportedly spotted by deputies from the Ulster County Sheriff's Department Monday afternoon on the Glasco Turnpike in the Town of Saugerties. Deputies reportedly recognized the car and the license plate number from an alert that had been broadcast by the FBI shortly after the hijacking.

The deputies attempted to force the vehicle off the road but the driver refused to comply. The car then sped along Glasco Turnpike with the Sheriff's Department patrol car in close pursuit.

The fugitive vehicle turned off the Glasco Turnpike at its intersection with Route 212 and headed north towards Saugerties. Police, by this time, had broadcast a description of the car and the direction in which it was heading. State Police patrols were also called for assistance.

The car, occupied by the two suspects, raced north on Route 212 to Saugerties and then on Route 32 through the Veteran area. It was there that police lost sight of the vehicle.

Roadblocks throughout Northern Ulster County area were set up immediately after the initial broadcast by the Sheriff's Department.

The fugitives eluded the roadblocks. At one point during the chase, three Sheriff's Department cars and several State Police cars pursued the suspects. A State Police helicopter was also pressed into action, and circled over the area in an attempt to spot the vehicle.

State Police roadblocks were abandoned at 8 p. m. Monday, but a detail of police authorities continued to comb the area throughout the night. State Police from Greene County, and FBI officials, were also involved. Police now believe that the two fugitives are somewhere in Greene County. Police are investigating the possibility that the two alleged hijackers may have ditched their car.

Police have declined to comment on the details of the hijacking itself. An FBI spokesman said "They are just two of many fugitives we are looking for and we believe them to be in this area."

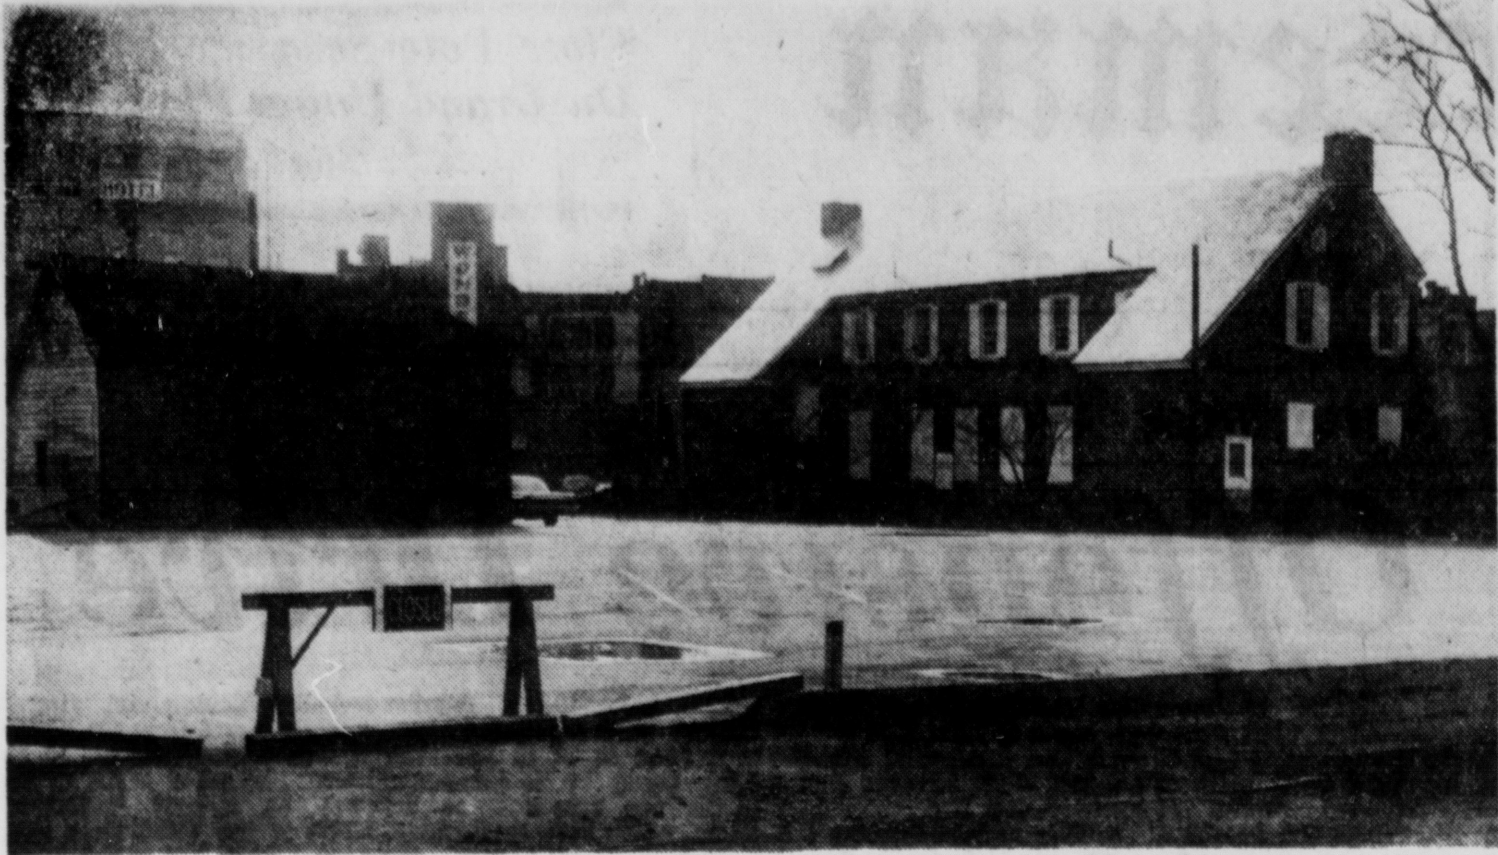

The owner of the car is described as being a white male, about six feet one inch tall and weighing 215 pounds. He is 33-years-old. The second fugitive, 45-years-old, is a white male, six feet two inches tall and weighs 300 pounds. Police have not released their names.

Grand Union Vote... Close

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON
The vote on Grand Union's proposal to build a supermarket at Broadway and Orchard Street is expected to highlight tonight's regular meeting of the Common Council. All indications point to a lengthy, heated debate on the issue, and a close vote.

"It could wind up in a tie," Majority Leader Peter J. Mancuso (D-12th Ward), said, following Monday night's Democratic caucus. "The vote will probably be very close." Mancuso did not commit himself on the issue. His opposite number, Brian Smith (R-Third Ward), the minority leader, did. "I'm definitely in favor of it," Smith said. The key man opposed to the proposal, Mayor Francis R. Koenig, is in Florida on a two-week vacation. Koenig's absence has resulted in some shifting of position in city government. Council president T.

Robert Gallo is now acting mayor. He is replaced by Mancuso, who, as acting alderman-at-large, does not vote, except in a case of a tie.

Koenig has threatened to veto the Grand Union proposal on the grounds that a supermarket at that site would jeopardize the proposed City Hall Plaza in Broadway East. Koenig's veto power however, is now in the hands of Acting Mayor Gallo.

The aldermen, when they meet tonight, will approve the City Hall Plaza along with a proposal to build a Friendly Ice Cream shop in the Uptown Project. Also slated for approval is a proposal by Route 9 Corporation to build 120 units of middle income apartments ($140 to $156 a month rental) off Flatbush Avenue on land the corporation owns.

Contracts calling for salary raises for Charles J. Cole, superintendent of the Department of Public Works, Emerson Mayes, his assistant and Woodrow Diehl, administrative assistant, in committee for the past four months, are also expected to come out for a Council vote.

The aldermen are expected to approve a request for a rezoning of the Humble Oil Company at Albany and Flatbush Avenue for a $300,000 expansion which will include a new car wash.

The council meets at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall, 408 Broadway.

Paltz Student Dies in Crash

By WALTER S. CLARK

BLOOMINGTON
A 24-year-old student at State University College in New Paltz was fatally injured shortly before 2 a.m. today when the car he was driving went out of control and crashed into guard rails and a large tree off Route 32 in this Town of Rosendale community.

First Sergeant Donald Policastro of the sheriff's department said the victim was Mark Puria of the U. S. Public Health Service Hospital on Staten Island. Policastro said identification of the crash victim was made today by the man's father, who told deputies his son attended college in New Paltz and had resided on Route 4 in that community.

The fatality was investigated by Deputy Sheriff Arthur Nersesian who was assisted by County Investigator Harold T. Bowers. A report of the Deputy noted that Puria was south-bound riding alone when his care went out of control on Route 32 at the intersection of Taylor Street.

The vehicle veered off the right shoulder, traveled a distance of 224 feet, careened back across the road, skidded sideways to the left shoulder and crashed through the guard rails. The car continued on until it slammed into a tree at the intersection of Taylor Street.

Puria was trapped in the wreckage, according to Policastro. Don's Ambulance of Rosendale went to the scene and attendants assisted in extricating the driver, who was pronounced dead later by Ulster County Coroner William S. Keyser.

Nersesian's report disclosed that from the point the car went out of control until it hit the tree the vehicle traveled a total distance of 458 feet.

The body was taken to the county morgue at Kingston Hospital for examination. Puria was the county's 13th traffic fatality of 1972. The 13th highway death in 1971 was recorded on April 29 after a West Saugerties man was killed in a crash on Route 28 west of Route 209, Town of Ulster.

Meanwhile, Kingston police investigated a traffic crash that occurred at 4:15 p.m. Monday on Broadway near Andrew Street. The cars involved were operated by Ronald P. Lindsley, 24, of 251 East Strand, and Margaret J. Berryann, 55, of 14 Simmons Drive, Woodstock. The woman was taken to Kingston Hospital after she complained of head and back pains.

Gunmen, British Troops Battle

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Gunmen and British troops battled shortly after dawn today in a Roman Catholic neighborhood of the city where hundreds of housewives are seeking a temporary truce to halt violence by the Irish Republican Army (IRA). Snipers fired machine gun fusillades at a British patrol on Andersonstown's Lenadoon Avenue and troops returned volleys of shots, a British army spokesman said. The snipers broke the duel and escaped. No casualties were reported, the spokesman said.

Security sources said they regarded the attack as a deliberate IRA gesture to demonstrate that its word still is law in Catholic areas of Belfast despite the plea for a truce by housewives in the area.

On the political front, the new British-imposed top government official of Northern Ireland may lift the ban against parades in the troubled province because the illegal Easter weekend marches were peaceful, government sources said.

The official, Secretary of State William Whitelaw, was encouraged by the orderliness of the 21 Roman Catholic marches and the one Protestant parade during the long weekend and consequently may lift the seven-month ban against them, the sources said. Whitelaw viewed the demonstrations from a helicopter.

Minor scattered violence erupted again Monday night during which a sniper in Londonderry shot and seriously wounded a British soldier, Lt. Robin Christmas, 26, as he and other troops scuffled with youths who had set fire to some houses, the army said.

At Dungannon, a small bomb exploded and caused superficial damage to a garage.

In Belfast, groups of children stoned a soldier in the Catholic Falls Road area. The soldier suffered a cut over an eye and the children's parents administered first aid until a doctor arrived, the army said.

Also in the capital, women supporters of the provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) broke up a meeting at a school in the Catholic Andersonstown area where 500 housewives convened to seek a temporary truce in the violence in the six counties of Ulster that flared anew in August, 1969.

About 300 women and a dozen youths carrying placards reading "We Support The Provos" and "No Sellout To Heath" invaded the meeting, singing IRA songs and shouting "Traitors, Traitors." Outside, eggs were thrown.

Cuban Employee Dies in Bombing

MONTREAL (UPI) — A official Cuban buildings in powerful bomb ripped through the Cuban Trade Commission offices early today, killing a Cuban employee.

Two attempts to bomb building in northeast Montreal. Immediate evacuation of the building was ordered because police said they felt other explosive devices may be planted.

The bomb went off inside the building on the 12th floor, said Montreal Fire Chief Roland Despatis. "Everything went down—ceilings, doors, the elevator, there was quite a bit of damage. It was a terribly powerful bomb because all of the 12th floor was damaged."

Police officials on the scene had said earlier that at least two bombs went off in the building, but the fire chief insisted there was only one explosion.

Police took into custody several armed Cubans attached to the trade commission, but said they were released shortly afterward because of their diplomatic immunity.

"It was as if a tornado had hit the complex," said a witness who worked across the street from the building. Another witness said the top of the building "just seemed to crumble."

Police said no other persons were injured in the blast, although reporters at the scene said some people were taken to hospitals in the area. This, however, could not immediately be confirmed.

Despatis said, "Firemen found his (the Cuban's) body alive but I don't know where they found it." Cuban guards are on the 12th story around the clock.

The fatally injured man died shortly after being taken to hospital. The bombing was the third incident involving explosives at official Cuban buildings in Canada within days. Last week, police in Ottawa found a device near the Cuban ambassador's home. On Monday, another device was found 30 yards from the Cuban embassy, also in Ottawa.

The streets below were showered with debris. "There is glass and concrete all over," said UPI photographer Gordon Karam. "I think the shock wave came down from the top stories."

"The area has been cordoned off and people living in the immediate vicinity are milling around the structure. Windows in buildings for some blocks away have been shattered."

Veteran Detectives' Death Described as Terrible Error

NEW YORK (AP) — Two high ranking police officials have described the death of a veteran detective who was mistaken for a lawbreaker as a "terrible error" and a mistake attributable to the pressure of crime.

The mixup occurred Monday in Queens police said, when patrolman Robert Kenny, 22, responding to the sounds of a gunshot and general commotion, shot and killed a man holding a gun over another man in a store doorway.

The dead man was Det. William Capers, 51, of Queens, a 19-year police veteran, who had just subdued a suspect following a chase.

Police were investigating whether Kenny violated any rules of the department. He did not fire a warning shot, police said.

Chief of Detectives Albert Seedman said Kenny, a policeman for two years, "is very sad and shaken up. He realizes his terrible error and regrets the whole incident."

Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy said "we take lots of precautions, but under the pressure of crime a mistake is made."

Capers, who was married and had three children, was promoted to second grade detective in July, 1965. Last month he received a departmental honorable mention for thwarting an armed robbery in a Queens supermarket last July.

Police said Capers and Det. Raymond L. Godley Jr. had stopped three men for questioning in a bank parking lot when one of them fled across the street.

Capers, pursuing, fired a warning shot before catching up with the man, identified as Leotis Troutman, 22, of Hempstead, in the doorway of a shoe store.

Troutman was later charged with felonious assault, resisting arrest and possession of a revolver. His companions, Thomas Scott, 22 of Queens and Bruce Underdue, 17, of Hempstead, were charged with illegal weapon possession. All will be arraigned today.

New Evidence Is Claimed

NEW YORK (AP) — An housing inspector was fired ousted city housing official Monday for allegedly authorizing $1,000 in repair for a Brooklyn building he owned. Investigation Commissioner Robert K. Ruskin, in announcing the dismissal, said the man was the seventh official of the Brooklyn Model Cities office to be fired since the inquiry began.

Clarence Martin, who was dismissed Friday from his post as head of the city's Emergency Repair Program, refused to specify either the evidence or the officials in his news conference Monday.

He said, however, that while his accusations would not include the mayor's office, he did not see how Mayor John V. Lindsay could be ignorant of "the deal."

Martin, who has come forward with information on graft and corruption during an inquiry into the office he headed, the Emergency Repair Program, was fired for what his superiors said was "divisive and disruptive behavior."

He charged Monday that he was being "sacrificed" by officials who "want to protect themselves." He was dismissed by Housing Administrator Albert A. Walsh and Rent Commissioner Benjamin Altman.

Crash Inquest Is Continuing

NEW CITY, N.Y. (AP) — Several more witnesses to a school bus-train collision in which four students died have testified at a coroner's inquest.

Still absent, however, was the bus driver, Joseph Larkin. Rockland County Medical Examiner Dr. Frederick Zugibe demanded Monday that Larkin, who was scheduled to lead off the day's hearings, come forward or submit a doctor's letter.

Terence Ryan, Larkin's lawyer, told the hearing that his client was still bedridden at home and suffering from shock. He was discharged last week from Nyack Hospital.

Parties Tab All Male Slates For Appeals' Court Vacancies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The state Democratic, Republican and Liberal parties chose all-male slates for the three vacancies on the Court of Appeals Monday, turning down the bids of women hopefuls.

The state Republican Committee rejected the bid of Assemblywoman Constance Cook of Ithaca, while the Democrats turned down Manhattan Family Court Judge Nanette Dembitz and State Supreme Court Justice Mary Margaret Mangan.

Mrs. Cook said after the decision, "I feel there is no question the fact that I am a woman worked against me." And she announced she would seek reelection to the Assembly.

"My lack of judicial experience is held against me," she declared, "but not against others—including the president of the Bar Association."

State Bar Association President Hugh R. Jones was among the three Republican nominees. GOP Chairman Charles Lanigan declared after the committee voted Monday that the "decisive factor" in the rejection of Mrs. Cook was the fact that the Judiciary Committee of the Bar Association had not found her qualified for the state's highest court.

Besides Jones, the Republicans nominated Dominick L. Gabrielli, 59, of Bath, a justice in the Appellate Division of State Supreme Court, and Sol Wachler, 41, of Kings Point, a State Supreme Court justice. Gabrielli was nominated by George Bevan, editor of the Corning Leader and a state committeeman.

The Democrats chose Lawrence H. Cooke, 57, of Monticello, an associate justice of the Appellate Division; Bernard Meyer, 55, Cedarhurst, a justice of the State Supreme Court, and Henry Martucello, 63, of Brooklyn, an Appellate Division associate justice. The Liberal Party endorsed Republican Wachler, and Democrats Martucello and Meyer.

State Democratic Chairman Joseph Crangle said that Judge Dembitz could run in the statewide primary June 20 "if she so chooses," because she received 25 per cent of the votes cast at the meeting.

Mrs. Cook announced that if Judge Dembitz decides to run, she would support her.

Mrs. Cook's name was withdrawn before the voting, when it became obvious that few committee members would support her candidacy. She had been nominated by Gary Lee of her home Tompkins County.

Mrs. Cook had actively sought the nomination. State Republican Chairman Charles Lanigan said "I'm not entirely sure that at this time a woman would have made it."

Gov. Rockefeller, at a news conference said he thought it was unfortunate that the State Bar Association had failed to clear any of the possible women candidates of either party. He called it "a very regrettable situation."

The nominations are for the seats to be vacated by retiring judges James Gibson of Hudson Falls, John Scileppi of Queens and Francis Bergan of Albany. Gibson is a Republican, Scileppi and Bergan are Democrats.

Legislative Leaders Appalled by Strike

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Saying they were appalled that mental patients and prison inmates were "used as virtual hostages" in the state employees' strike, legislative leaders are considering whether to raise the $60 million needed to pay for the pay raises the workers won.

Republican leaders of both houses said Monday they were "highly disturbed over the illegal strike" which began at midnight Friday and ended Sunday afternoon with a four per cent pay raise offer.

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller called the strike "intolerable." He said there would be no amnesty for the striking workers, who face the loss of two days pay for every day they refused to work.

There was no figure immediately available on the number of workers who would be penalized, since the strike occurred over the weekend when most state offices are closed.

The strike was felt most at state mental hospitals and at prisons where guards refused to cross the CSEA picket lines. The guards are members of another union which currently is negotiating with the state on a new contract.

Assembly Speaker Perry Duryea and Senate Majority Leader Earl Brydges issued a joint statement Monday promising legislative action on the strike.

They pointed out that the legislature "now is faced with the problem of deciding whether to ratify this agreement and, in the event that it does so, where to find the money to finance its implementation."

"Since no new taxes will be levied, fixing the necessary appropriations within the state's fiscal plan may mean further curtailment of state operations and local assistance," they said.

Rockefeller said the money would have to come from the $400 million the state hopes to get from the federal revenue sharing bill which is before Congress, or from short-term borrowing by the state.

He said his Office of Employee Relations, Atty. Gen. Louis Lefkowitz and the Public Employment Relations Board would administer penalties to state workers who violated the Taylor Law prohibiting strikes by public employees.

Brydges and Duryea called for enforcement of the law to the letter.

"Any lesser step would completely undermine the intent of that statute, and would serve as an open invitation—at every level of government—for continued nose-thumbing at this and other law covering public employee activities," they said.

Rocky Cites Taylor Act Penalties

NEW YORK (AP) — Labeling "intolerable" last weekend's strike by state employees, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says the state will act to impose penalties for violation of the Taylor Act prohibiting strikes by public employees.

Rockefeller said Monday the state employees should have continued negotiations, reopened at their request, instead of "illegally striking" when their contract expired at midnight Friday.

The governor said a key point in the final prestrike talks, relating to the final payment date for an increased salary during 1972-73, "should have been settled without violating the Taylor Law, causing hardship and human suffering at state mental institutions, and threatening security at state prisons."

The 40-hour walkout by employees belonging to the 140,000-member Civil Service Employees Association (CSEA) necessitated the curtailment of patient services at several mental hospitals and the assignment of state troopers to three upstate prisons where guards refused to cross CSEA picket lines.

Rockefeller said provisions of the Taylor Act would be enforced by State Atty. Gen. Louis Lefkowitz, the Public Employment Relations Bureau and Abe Lavine, director of the Office of Employee Relations.

The law permits striking public employees to be penalized by the loss of two days' pay for each day on strike. Also, the strikers could be subject to one year's probation, which they must serve without job tenure.

Political Boss Losing His Grip

By KIRTLAND I. KING

ALBANY, N.Y., UPI — The political boss has lost his grip on the New York state legislature.

No longer can he sit back and pull strings. The individual lawmakers have come into their own and now tell "the boss" how they intend to vote on controversial legislation.

The lawmakers, Republican and Democrat, make their own decisions after listening to arguments on proposed legislation. Of course, many of them are the political leaders back home but generally the rank-and-file speak only for themselves.

This switch in control has made the jobs of the majority and minority leaders much more difficult. The legislative leader now must convince each member. In the old days, the leader could telephone a political boss back home and, perhaps pick up five or more votes with one call.

One assemblyman recently pointed out he has won election 10 consecutive times without the backing of the regular political organization.

"They have refused to endorse me, so I just go out and beat them in the primary," he said. "On election day, of course, the regular organization are back of me 100 per cent. But, you can see I can beat the leader in a primary any time I want."

No one recognizes the situation better than Governor Rockefeller. Even though he is an officeholding political leader, he still can't swing majorities in the legislature behind all administration program bills.

An aide said the governor believes Majority Leader Earl Brydges and Assembly Speaker Perry Duryea have "accomplished wonders" in the face of the difficulties involved.

In one of the few times in recent history, Rockefeller had to depend on a Republican-Democratic coalition to get his tax plan through. There were not enough Republican votes in either house.

There is a story veteran observers tell that shows how powerful the political boss was in the past.

A lawmaker was debating a bill which he described "as vicious" and "unconstitutional."

"This bill strikes at the very heart of our government," he said. After he had attacked the measure for about 15 minutes, his house leader called a page.

"Go tell the senator his political boss is in favor of this bill," the leader said.

The page went and whispered the information to the legislator. The lawmaker took his handkerchief out of his pocket, wiped his brow.

"That," he said, "is what the opponents of this measure are going to tell you. Here's what it really does."

And, then spoke another 15 minutes supporting the proposal.

Primary Fight Looms for Barone

KINGSTON

Anthony M. Barone, Orange County Republican Committee's recent choice for the nomination for State Senate in the new 40th State Senatorial District which includes the City of Kingston and southern Ulster will face a primary fight with the incumbent Sen. Richard Schermerhorn. The new district also encompasses all of Orange and Rockland Counties.

ANTHONY M. BARONE

Barone, 43, a resident of Monroe for 10 years is an attorney and a member of the Orange County Legislature. He resides with his wife, Elvira and three children on Round Lake Park Road.

He attended Fordham University where he earned the degree of Bachelor of Science and Doctor of Law. An Air Force veteran Barone was separated from active military service with the rank of first lieutenant.

He has served the Village of Monroe as attorney since 1964 and has been the legal counsel to the Village of Monroe Planning Board during that same period. In 1969 he was elected to the Orange County Legislature on the Republican ticket for a four-year term. He serves as chairman of the Orange County Board of Ethics, is a member of the Personnel and Compensation Committee as well as other county committees.

Barone said he has legislative experience coupled with a strong dedication and desire to serve the people of the 40th Senatorial District of the State of New York which includes all of Orange County, Southern Ulster County and Stony Point in Rockland County.

Kingston Jaycees To Host Convention

KINGSTON

The Kingston Jaycees will host Division 2 Jaycee convention at the Governor Clinton Hotel April 7.

At the convention during the District 3 meeting Kingston will move to make Operation Venus, the fight against venereal disease, a district project.

Kingston Jaycees are seeking district support of the program due to lack of needed funds to run the project on a local level and to better the chances of improving treatment facilities for VD on a county level. It was noted also that the demand for films and literature supplied by the Kingston Jaycees is greater outside the city.

Division 2 is made up of four districts. District 3 includes Jaycees in Highland, Kingston, New Paltz, Rondout Valley and Walen. Other districts are 1, Greater Cornwall, Monroe-Woodbury, Newburgh, Warwick and Chester; 2, Goshen, Liberty, Middletown and Monticello; 4, Greene County, Hudson, Red Hook, Saugerties and Woodstock.

In connection with Operation Venus, a film entitled Kathy, will be presented 3 p.m. Saturday, April 8, at the Bonanza Branch Office of Kingston.

The film which is highly recommended by Dr. William Taylor, Ulster County Health Commissioner and Richard Sheridan, Kingston High School Health Director is designed to inform age group 15 to 19 of signs and treatment for venereal disease.

Jack Anderson Says

Consumer Bill Is Emasculated

WASHINGTON — The agenda used by a Senate Banking subcommittee for killing measures, intended to protect housewives from billing abuses, was prepared and typed in the thick-carpeted suite of the American Bankers Association.

This intrusion of the banking lobby in the committee rooms of the Senate is brazen even by Washington standards. Yet so powerful are the bankers that the gutting of the bill is likely to stick.

The agenda was prepared by James Cash, a former Senate Banking Committee aide who is now the bankers' most deft lobbyist on Capitol Hill.

To make sure the banks were protected instead of the customers, the bankers put the agenda into the hands of one of their best friends in the Senate, capable Bill Brock, R-Tenn., son of a bank director.

Without informing his fellow Senators that the document was the work of the banking lobby, Brock requested it be adopted as the agenda for a secret meeting of the subcommittee. Unaware of its origins, Chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis., agreed.

As one bank lobby recommendation after another passed, it was evident to the handful of pro-consumer Senators how thoroughly Brock and Cash had done their work.

In the secrecy of the committee room, for example, Brock and his allies knocked out a provision which would have allowed housewives to refuse to pay for shoddy merchandise. Voting against the housewives were Senators Wallace Bennett, R-Utah; John Tower, R-Tex.; Alan Cranston, D-Calif.; and Bob Packwood, R-Ore. The deciding vote was the proxy of one-time populist John Sparkman, D-Ala., chairman of the parent Senate Banking Committee.

Consumer Sabotage
Knowing they were outside the hearing of the irate consumers, the Brock wrecking crew also permitted backdating of financing charges, which cost customers $200 million in 1971. They voted against a provision to block sky-high 60 per cent financing rates, also against another clause to prevent billing for undelivered merchandise.

Vainly backing the consumer in the closed session were Senators Proxmire, Harrison Williams, D-N.J.; Tom McIntyre, D-N.H.; and Walter Mondale, D-Minn.

When the tallies were all in, the banks had rammed through, wholly or in part, 15 of their 20 amendments. One weary senator muttered as he left the committee room: "We began with the Fair Credit Billing Act. We wound up with the Bank Protection Act of 1972."

My associate, Less Whitten, visited Cash in his surprisingly modest quarters tucked amid the splendor of the hushed banking lobby suite. At first Cash denied that the agenda was typed in his office.

But Whitten showed him samples we had obtained from his office typewriters which have distinctive characteristics. Confronted with the evidence, Cash acknowledged the work had been done by him and his aides.

Proxmire, meanwhile, was so upset that he has refused to put his name on the report, even though the original bill is his. He has promised a floor fight on the measure.

Footnote: Through a spokesman, Brock told us he was unaware the agenda was prepared by the banking lobby. A spokesman for the American Bankers Association insisted that it was only a "table of comparisons." If Brock used it as a formal agenda, he did it without the bankers' knowledge, said the spokesman.

ITT's Eavesdropping
Firms that rent telex circuits from ITT may not know it, but ITT has been sneaking peeks at their cable messages.

ITT memos, which escaped the corporate shredder, show that ITT has been secretly monitoring messages from such institutions as these:

Irving Trust, the First National City Bank of New York, the Bank of Tokyo, Beaufort Mills, Philippine National Bank, Central Gulf Steamships Lines, Kobayashi Metals, Babcock Wilcox, Transmundo, Kersten Shipping and Long Quinn & Boylan.

One ITT memo titled "Private Wire Monitors" says mournfully: "Since the beginning of this effort, very little feedback has been received regarding its effectiveness."

Another memo on ITT letterhead requests headquarters to "please advise if we are to continue monitoring program."

In Washington, a worried ITT spokesman said the monitoring was only to ensure that telex toll charges were correct. This time, it appears, ITT may be telling the truth.

Our own probe shows that customers had complained that ITT was overcharging them. Apparently, ITT wanted to check for itself. As it turned out, 90 per cent of the customers' gripes were justified.

Meany's Point

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, made a good case on the failure of price controls to stem the rise of food prices, but his suggestion that "if price controls are to work they have to be enforced by the Government, even if it requires a bureaucracy of 200,000 people," is impractical. It would create an army of snoopers we can't take.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally's call for the heads of a number of chain groceries to discuss price changes was a warning the grocers cannot overlook, and is more likely to work. The Cost of Living Council also filed suit against a Colorado steel company, charging it with violation of price controls. That is also a better way to bring down prices.

The nation's economy cannot go through another shakedown period without risking economic disaster, and Meany's suggestion of enlisting a price watchdog force of 200,000 would be such a shakedown. Labor has had its own voluntary watchdog force, which produced some evidence that Meany used in his testimony before the Price Commission, but it did not produce effective results. A hired public force would do no better.

Meany is right in testifying to "exemptions, exclusions and loopholes" that are defeating price controls. And that the Internal Revenue Service, charged with enforcing price controls, and the Justice Department had produced "few investigations, even fewer prosecutions and hardly any indictments of violations."

But the Price Commission and the overall stabilization office, the Cost of Living Council, have been operating by persuasion while gathering testimony. Connally has given the signal by his call to the food chains. The council has shown its teeth by charging a manufacturer with a price control violation. The time for voluntary persuasion is over. The investigations and the prosecutions have begun.

Meany even suggested that "an all-out public pay board will do a better job than the tripartite board—of labor, industry and the public—that existed before the walkout" of himself and three other labor leaders. Well, its a seven member board now, with one labor, one industry and five public members. Given labor's cooperation, it can and should work. Now that the labor members have vented their indignation, we hope they will give the new Pay Board the chance to work that Meany foresees.

Starving Cancer

It isn't as simple as eating less, but a Harvard pediatric surgeon has all but found a way to cut off the blood capillary nourishment from a multi-celled cancerous tumor and to starve it into remaining the size of a pinhead, of no harm to anyone. The tumor's blood supply, as well as its waste product conduit, depend upon a tumor-angiogenesis factor, (T.A.F.), according to Dr. M. Judah Folkman.

In many test-tube experiments, when deprived of the effect of T.A.F., cancer tumor growth stopped. Without the triggering effect of T.A.F., test-tube cancers also literally smother in their own waste products.

In rabbits, if tiny tumors are implanted too far away from existing capillaries, they also become dormant. This is thought to be the first time it has been possible to hold a carcinoma in the dormant state in an animal.

T.A.F. contains a ribonucleic acid-protein complex with a molecular weight of about 100,000. Dr. Folkman and his associates are searching for a way to inhibit this substance, and, like the FBI enlisting its agents in several cities, he now has six or more other laboratories about to join the search, with extreme thoroughness concentrating on every clue.

The Harvard laboratory is at present trying to make an antibody to T.A.F., to use as a vaccine to inhibit cancers, but Folkman says that it may take from two to five years to establish a treatment method. The prayers and hopes of many thousands beg for a shorter interval.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The television folks, with their doom-crying over nearly every primary, may well have gone mad by July if somehow both Sens. Edmund Muskie and Hubert Humphrey are still battling hard for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The prospect is unlikely, and I am not predicting it. But it is not an impossibility. Things like that have happened before.

Given television's emotional, apocalyptic approach to politics today, it's probably just as well it wasn't providing the same lavish coverage in earlier nomination struggles.

Thus far this year, television, abetted by some of its "print media" brethren, has moderately underplayed Muskie's primary victory in New Hampshire, grossly overplayed Gov. George Wallace's triumph in Florida (here and there making him sound like a possible nominee), inflated New York Mayor John Lindsay's limited gains in some Arizona caucuses, and put the wrong focus on the Illinois primary (the big thing was Muskie's better than 4-to-1 delegate victory over Sen. George McGovern, not Muskie's 63-37 win over Eugene McCarthy in a popularity test).

With its present penchant for plunging candidates to the depths or lifting them to the clouds on the basis of single-shot performances, television would have had just a terrible time in the years 1952 through 1964.

Think what the electronic fellows would have done, for instance, with the Stevenson-Kefauver primary in Minnesota in 1956. The late Adlai Stevenson had the governor and all the other top people with him. No one sniffed real peril.

But old Sen. Estes Kefauver padded around that state and whopped Stevenson by 60,000 votes! It would have been burial rites for Adlai on TV's morning-after shows.

As it turned out, though, Kefauver won some others (mostly unopposed), Stevenson won the big ones he needed in Florida, Oregon and California. After that, the wise types said Stevenson was in, and the Keef pulled out.

The year 1952 would have had the television boys in a vertigo. First General Eisenhower won New Hampshire and piled up a big Minnesota write-in that almost stole the thing from favorite son Harold Stassen. Then Sen. Robert Taft snapped back and took Wisconsin and Illinois.

In Round Three, Ike ran up blistering winning scores in New Jersey, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. Taft counter-punched with victories in Ohio, West Virginia, Nebraska.

Eisenhower struck again in Oregon and Taft slipped past him in a bitter South Dakota primary.

Today's television specialists would have buried those two so many times along the way they would have run out of black and purple.

They aren't equipped for drawn-out slugging matches.

They like to put 'em up and put 'em down quick. Show biz.

They couldn't have handled the fact that Taft beat Ike, 6 to 5, in primaries but lost the nomination on the first ballot; that Kefauver in 1956 won seven primaries to Stevenson's five but withdrew before convention time; that Barry Goldwater in 1964 went a weak 5-5 in primaries, looked bad in three of his victories, yet quickly swept the convention.

Then there was that lovely moment in the Los Angeles sports arena in 1960. John F. Kennedy, 7-6 in the primaries, was about to be nominated convincingly on the first ballot.

But galleries packed and shouting for Stevenson persuaded prestigious television commentators that a thunderous surf was about to wipe out Kennedy's castles of sand. It didn't. The tide went out and never came back.

Maybe that's when the television types really began to find their own marvelous world of apocalyptic politics. It's quite something.

Martin Nolan Says

The Survival of All Ireland

WASHINGTON — During February hearings of a House subcommittee on European affairs, American politicians suggested several ways that the British government might ease the torment in Ulster.

One way was to abolish the Stormont Parliament and restore direct British rule. Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen, R-N.J., had scoffed at the whole idea of American Congressional hearings and dismissed the possibility that the British government would take such a radical step.

Last week the chairman of the subcommittee, Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., sent a transcript of the February hearings to Frelinghuysen, suggesting that American interest in Ulster had actually helped strengthen the resolve of Prime Minister Edward Heath to take the first difficult step in a long, excruciating journey to restore peace and justice to Ulster.

The most famous Irish-American politician of them all, Sen. Edward Kennedy, had filed a resolution calling for eventual British troop withdrawals and a unification of Ireland. With Sen. Abraham Ribicoff and Rep. Hugh Carey, D-N.Y., Kennedy was ridiculed for minding other people's business by calling Ulster "Britain's Vietnam" and the "Bloody Sunday" killing of 13 in Londonderry "Britain's My Lai."

But now, some sense of prophecy is appearing in the strange calm hanging over the six provinces. Since Ulster escaped Easter with its evocations of the 1916 Irish revolt, Heath's initial move may yet offer some hope for peace. A British takeover was necessary for eventual withdrawal.

Those February hearings received far more extensive publicity in England and Ireland than in America. Assimilation—that process of homogenizing Americans into forgetfulness of generations past—has done its work.

The fourth-generation insurance agent sitting in church on Easter perhaps grumbles about the new Catholic liturgy, but he sees no Irish connection with Easter. St. Patrick's Day has become a media event of sorts, a day of homage to the stage Irish.

"Sometimes I think we boast too much," said Mr. Hennessy to Mr. Dooley. "Well," said Mr. Dooley, "It's only on Patrick's Day we can hire others to blow our horns for us."

Perhaps among younger Irish-Americans, some sense of solidarity is more evident. This seems to be the case in New York, where fundraising efforts go on amid strong passions. Parades and dances are sometimes held for a grim purpose, raising money for guns for the IRA.

Heath's promise to close the internment centers may stave off some of the desperation among Catholics in Belfast. Even the Protestant extremists are beginning to see little economic profit as strikes cripple the economy.

The American House subcommittee has yet to issue its report on what Congress might say about easing the agony in Ulster. Time may be on the side of peace, after all.

But support for England from Irish-American politicians may help Heath and may disprove William Butler Yeats' account of the 1913 uprising:

Was it for this the wild geese spread
The gray wing upon every tide?

For this that all the blood was shed.

For this Edward Fitzgerald died.

And Robert Emmet and Wolfe Tone.

All that delirium of the brave?

Romantic Ireland's dead and gone.

It's with O'Leary in the grave.

OUR PLEDGE...

Grand Union is extremely concerned with the recent rapid rise of meat prices;

An effective program of reducing meat prices requires a total industry effort and we intend to do our part. Grand Union is, therefore, immediately taking the following actions:

1. We pledge that we will hold the line on the regular everyday retail prices of our fresh meats for the next 30 days. This means that no regular fresh meat retail prices will be increased during this period.
2. Furthermore, Grand Union will pass on to its customers all savings resulting from its reduction of costs for fresh meats.

I MAKE THIS PLEDGE TO YOU ON BEHALF OF THE MORE THAN 26 THOUSAND PEOPLE OF GRAND UNION IN OUR FIGHT AGAINST INFLATION.

Sincerely,
Charles G. Rodman, President

Ferde Grofe Dead at 80, Was Well-Known Composer

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI)—Ferde Grofe, the wandering musician with classical training who played piano in nickelodeons and silent movie parlors, camped out in Grand Canyon one night in 1922.

Years later he turned his night under the stars into a 20th century musical landmark, one of the proudest achievements of a career as a composer that brought the rhythms of America—its land, work and jazz—into the concert halls.

Grofe—who wrote "Grand Canyon Suite," one of the best-known American orchestral pieces, and did the arranging that turned a score by George Gershwin into the classic jazz symphony "Rhapsody in Blue"—died at his home Monday. He was 80, and actively composing to the last.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday. "Everything I have written," he once said, "was intended to be American music for the American people. I never thought people would accept it outside my own country, but now that they have, I think other people understand that it contains the sounds and sensations peculiarly associated with our places and people and natural phenomena."

In 1924, Grofe was a pianist and arranger with the Paul Whiteman band, transforming jazz, with its roots deep in American Negro life, into the basis for orchestral pieces. He was called in two weeks before the scheduled world premiere to orchestrate the bare-boned score of "Rhapsody in Blue" by the young Gershwin, who at that time did not do his own arrangements.

The rhapsody, played in Carnegie Hall, was an instant success and marked the birth of what has been called serious jazz.

Grofe was born in New York City, son of Hail von Grofe, actor and baritone. He learned how to read and play music at the age of 5, from his mother.

He ran away from home and was self-supporting at age 14 working in an iron foundry, bookbinding, in a dance band he formed, as viola player in the Los Angeles Symphony at 17 and then as itinerant piano ver, keyboarding accompaniment to silent movies. He was crippled in 1962 by a stroke that deprived him of the use of his right hand as he was using it to sign an autograph. Six months later, he was back at the piano, composing with his left hand and completing the "World's Fair Suite." Other strokes followed however.

In recent months, according to friends, he would call his third wife, Anne, to his bedside to take down his compositions.

Fire Destroys Ulster County Area Bungalow

SHOKAN — The interior of a one-story bungalow on Bostock Road at Route 28 was heavily gutted by fire in this Town of Olive community early today, and officials reported a man who resided in the building sustained slight burns of the right leg.

Meanwhile, Gardiner fire units were called out at 8:47 p.m. Monday for fire that destroyed a 40-foot trailer home. Firefighters were hampered by a large quantity of large and small ammunition that exploded during the blaze.

Assistant Chief Robert Adsit of the Olive Department said department units from Shokan, Boiceville and Olive Bridge responded to an alarm at 12:28 a.m. for the fire in the frame bungalow owned by Felix La-

Stratton Seeks Reelection

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Samuel Stratton announced Monday he will seek reelection from the new 28th Congressional District in New York.

Stratton, an Amsterdam Democrat, now represents the 29th district. His only announced opposition is John Ryan, the Republican mayor of Scotia.

zaal. On arrival firemen found flames inside the house. Thirty-five men in charge of Adsit fought the blaze that turned through the structure which has been occupied by Carl Edmondson, who received burns of the leg and was treated by firemen at the scene. Chief Adsit said the fire started in an overstuffed chair in which Edmondson apparently had been sleeping. Fire units reported back in service at 3:30 a.m.

Gardiner Fire Chief Thomas Upright reported last night's fire was in a trailer on Forest Glen Road. The structure is owned by Ray Cappucci of Long Island. It was unoccupied at the time.

When 35 firefighters arrived with three trucks they found the trailer-home fully involved in flames. The trailer had been used weekends.

The cause was not immediately determined. Firemen reported back in service at 10:30 p.m.

Modena fire company moved into the district and on standby until the Gardiner firemen returned to their station.

In Kingston, firemen were dispatched to Post and Hunter Streets at 9:20 p.m. after a large section of electric wiring was reported burning. Firemen were on standby until a Central Hudson crew arrived to make repairs. Captain Robert Schatzel was in charge.

Vermont Chief To Retire

MONTPELIER, Vt. (UPI) — Gov. Deane C. Davis, 71, the nation's oldest chief executive, announced Monday he plans to retire from politics.

The two-term governor, elected first in 1968 when he easily defeated Lt. Gov. John Daley, said: "Vermont's financial house has been put in order."

"The state's finances were in a shambles," Davis said. "We faced a huge deficit ($7.8-million) and the prospect of financial chaos and failure."

The former National Life Insurance Co. president and board chairman said his first task was "to raise adequate revenues and to impose stringent controls on spending."

"Painful though it was," he said, "we were successful." In fact, the 1969 Republican-dominated legislature enacted his 3 per cent sales tax.

In 1968, Davis said it was "obvious we could not launch into new programs," but said, "we have served the essential needs of Vermonters and have done it with no new broad-based taxes since 1969."

He said the success of his four years in office, has been largely due "to the reorganization of state government," a move he said was 65 per cent complete.

Elections Set

Elections will be held at the April 6 meeting of the Accord Fire Company Inc., Rochester Fire Company 2 and Allgerville Fire Company Inc. Posts to be voted in the district election are chief, first, second, third and fourth assistant chief. The meeting will be at 8 p.m. at the Accord Firehouse.

Campy Remains On Serious List

VALHALLA, N.Y. (AP) — Baseball Hall of Famer Roy Campanella remains in serious condition at Grassland Hospital. His physician, Dr. W. R. Dalziel, reported no change in the condition of the 50-year-old former Brooklyn Dodger Catcher Monday night.

Campanella has been in the hospital since Thursday with an embolism on the lung.

T-Way Stop Costs Whitestone Pair $110 in Penalties

ROSENDALE — Two young Whitestone men found sleeping and intoxicated off the State Thruway near here at 10:30 a. m. Saturday were arrested by State Trooper Jerry Pine following an investigation. Trooper Pine said when he awakened one of the men identified as Robert Louis Bombardi, 22, of 150-38 15th Drive, Whitestone, the man put up a fight and had to be subdued. Bombardi was later booked for resisting arrest and public intoxication. He pleaded guilty to both charges before Town Justice Albert Morelli. He was fined $50 on the intoxication count and sentenced to 30 days for resisting arrest. Troopers said.

Arrested with Bombardi on charges of being a pedestrian on the superhighway and having an open container of alcoholic beverages—a gallon jug partly filled with wine—was John Gallo, 18, also of Whitestone.

Gallo pleaded guilty to both charges before Justice Morelli. He was fined $50 on the open container count and $10 for being a pedestrian on the State Thruway, according to Trooper Pine.

Two Youths Are Arrested

NEW PALTZ — Two 16-year-old boys were arrested early Saturday morning inside the New Palitz Middle School on Manheim Boulevard and charged with burglary third degree and criminal mischief.

The youths, not identified because they were granted youthful offender status, were taken into custody by Patrolmen D. J. Cappone and D. L. Haynes of the New Palitz Town Police. Several windows had been broken in the building and materials strewn over the floors, the officers reported.

Juilliard Acting Company Scheduled for Saratoga

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (UPI)—The Juilliard Acting Company will join the New York City Ballet and the Philadelphia Orchestra as a resident company of the Saratoga Performing Arts Center.

In a joint announcement Monday, officials of the school and the center said the school's first performance would be Sheridan's "School for Scandal," July 3 at the Spa Theater.

Thereafter, there will be eight weekly performances, including two weekly matinees. The underwriting necessary for a four-week, four-play Saratoga season

PARENTS NIGHT PROGRAM — Can Your Child See to Learn was the topic of a program presented at the Fair Street Nursery Parents Night recently. Participating in the discussion were (L-R) the Mmes. Ellie Christensen, Betty Emerick and Mary Ellen Aldrich, teachers; Mrs. Frieda Dinger, director of the Kingston City Schools Consolidated Multi Media Center and president of the nursery school board and Dr. Robert Weber, optometrist, guest speaker. The program was well attended. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Town Board Approves Trailer Permit

SAWKILL — Meadow resigned from the town planning board and also as the town's representative to the Ulster County Planning Board. The town set tax grievance day for Tuesday, June 20, in the town hall from 6 to 10 p.m. Whispell reminded town residents that they must fill out and submit an EA-38 form to the board to be heard. The forms are available from Assessor Joseph Carcano and board of review members.

The board named Walter Bundy of Hallahan Hill to the town's three-man Assessment Board of Review. Bundy, a former National Guard officer, replaces Whispell, who resigned.

Follies Collects 11 Nominations

NEW YORK (AP) — The musical "Follies" collected 11 nominations on Monday to lead candidates for Broadway's annual "distinguished accomplishment" Tony Awards.

Selected to compete against it in the best musical category were "Two Gentlemen of Verona," which garnered 10 nominations; "Ain't Supposed to Die a Natural Death," with 7; and "Grease," with 6.

In the straight drama division, the nominees include "Sticks and Bones," by David Rabe; Neil Simon's "The Prisoner of Second Avenue;" and two British imports, Harold Pinter's "Old Times" and Robert Bolt's "Vivat! Vivat Regina!"

Altogether nine musicals and 13 dramas won recognition with one or more nominations in 16 competitive classes. Ten of the shows have already closed. The nominations were made by a panel of theater writers and critics. Their list is voted upon by about 500 representatives of the stage industry. Winners will be announced during a two-hour show on the ABC television network Sunday, April 23.

Because of TV considerations, productions which opened between March 17 1971 and April 12, 1972 were eligible for jury consideration, creating a rather odd situation.

The show which got the most nominations, "Follies," opened last April 4. "Sugar," a lavish musical now scheduled to open next Sunday waived any opportunity for nominations when Producer David Merrick de-

Rabbi David B. Hollander, also of the alliance, said boys in Orthodox schools receive "deeper academic study," while girls' lessons stress vocations like typing and stenography, along with dietary laws.

Mixed seating, in synagogue, they said, is a "clear violation of our faith" while reorganization of the schools would constitute "a threat to the essence of our religious education."

Rabbi Gross urged that the amendment, which must be ratified by 38 states, be held up until it is rephrased to guarantee "adequate protection of religious rights."

Representatives of four rabbinic organizations took part in the news conference, saying they represented congregations totalling about 500,000 Jews.

Ulster Dems Plan Meeting

TOWN OF ULSTER — The Town of Ulster Democratic Committee will meet Thursday, April 6, at the Bonanza Branch of Kingston Savings Bank on Route 9W.

Town committeemen are urged to attend, as the present chairman, Ben Meyerhoff, will be vacating his post due to occupational reassignment and his successor must be chosen. In addition, fund raising programs for 1972 will be completed.

All Democrats are asked to attend with an eye toward possibly accepting positions as committeemen for their districts. A redistribution of committeemen is planned to cover recent vacancies.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 7:45 p. m.

Trailways Talks Cease

ADIRONDACK BUSES STILLED ON ABEEL STREET.

KINGSTON Details on the substance of Monday's meeting were not released, but William Vanderbilt, a spokesman for Adirondack Trailways, said today the company is no longer optimistic that a settlement will be reached soon.

The strike has curtailed all Adirondack Trailways services in more than 50 communities from New York City to Massena. Among the areas hardest hit is the Mid-Hudson Valley.

When service is normal, Trailways runs between 10-15 buses daily from Kingston to New York City. Pine Hill Trailways, which is not affected by the strike, is now running two special busses daily from Stony Hollow to New York City at 7:30 a.m. and 12:05 p.m. Two other busses will run on Sunday only and another bus will run every day except Sunday at 7:20 p.m.

Travelers, however, must find their own transportation to the Stony Hollow depot, two miles west of Kingston on Route 28. Pine Hill Trailways will also run three busses daily from New York City to Stony Hollow and two others on Friday only. Normally, Adirondack runs 17 separate busses from New York to Kingston.

There is no bus service whatsoever to or from New Paltz. Travelers must embark or leave at Highland.

Bus service between Kingston and Albany has not been adversely affected by the strike, since Adirondack Trailways does not have the local rights for that route. Mt. View Coach Lines will continue to run its four daily busses from Kingston to Albany.

Since a number of bus companies run routes that are parallel to Adirondack's, most communities in Eastern New York have bus service. Travelers can still get to where they want to go, but not as easily or quickly.

The problem was especially acute on Easter Sunday. Vanderbilt said several hundred people "were undoubtedly caught on Sunday" after a familiar connections were cancelled.

The problem may be even more serious this weekend, when thousands of college students return to campuses throughout the state. Close to a thousand will likely be headed for New Paltz State University by bus. They'll have to find their own transportation from either Highland or Kingston to New Paltz.

The bus drivers walked off the job at 12:01 a.m. Sunday, after they rejected the company's latest contract offer. Most drivers called in sick Monday morning and the rest were sent home by the company later that day "for their own protection." Non-union employees remain on the job.

Attorney Switch, Meeting Dates Top Village Session

Budget Set to Hold Line, Proclaims Red Hook Mayor

RED HOOK Mayor Robert Bowman

pledged at Monday evening's Village Board meeting that the upcoming budget would "hold the line" on taxes while proclaiming 7 p.m. April 13 as the date for a public hearing on the matter.

He added that the finalized proposed budget will be available for public inspection sometime this weekend.

He predicted "some reasonable increases" maintaining services while keeping the taxes in line.

Bowman also said that a public hearing on a revised zoning law should be held sometime in May, as the entire comprehensive plan is currently being reviewed. There will be about three press releases prior to that public hearing to inform residents of the important contents.

The mayor noted that there have been informal discussions between the village officials and some big water users in the village to discuss problems experienced in shortages in the past and possible solutions. A new rate schedule may be forthcoming for out of village users.

A new billing contract with the City of Poughkeepsie has been scheduled for April 5. The village began the computerized billing one year ago and plans to continue it.

A final report on the year's activities in the joint village-town recreation program was given, noting that about 150 youngsters participated during that women's softball league will probably begin this summer under the recreation department.

Bowman reorganized responsibilities among the trustees, following the swearing in of new trustee Townsend and returnee James Melley. Department heads will be Fred Cotting, finance; Miller D. Magle, police; James Melley, streets, sanitation, sewerage;

Myrtle Townsend, planning; and Bowman, water and CATV.

A petition from the residents of the Graves Street area asked that the street be made one-way, going south toward East Market Street. The matter will be considered.

Melley said that Prince and Fraleigh Streets were to be improved by grading and blacktopping this summer and the village hoped to rent the town sweeper for the streets soon.

Cotting suggested setting aside monies to pay off bonded indebtedness, thereby allowing interest to accrue.

Cleanup days will be April 26 west of Route 9 and April 28 east of Route 9.

Approval was given by the Board to have the 200,000 gallon water tank repainted and patched at a cost of $2,970, the job was last done in 1968.

The starting time for village board meetings has been changed from 8 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. with private audiences available at 7 p.m.

Some appointments made in reorganization were: Albert Trezza, acting village justice; Douglas Wicks, attorney; Elizabeth Haystrand, treasurer; Francis Rabbett, clerk; Ethel Rabbet, police dispatcher and deputy clerk; Rex Maine and Robert Moul, fulltime patrolmen.

Dowling did not like the idea, against 125. Ellenville then had rinsed out.

Tannenbaum's main contention was that since the session in addition, an idea board got so much done in favor of Dowling.

Sheriff's Program Funded

KINGSTON The Ulster County Sheriff's Department youth service project has been funded for the second year in a row with the State of New York allocating $9,795 in aid through its State Division for Youth.

The announcement was made this week by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller who said "It is important that all of our young citizens are involved in group activities which develop leadership, good sportsmanship, responsibility, understanding of peers and pride and interest in the community in which they live."

Sheriff William B. Martin is chairman of the recreation commission and the year round program is under the direction of Charles E. Cooper with Mrs. Fannie Lawson, Division for Youth representative for the area providing technical assistance in the development of the project.

In making application for the grant, Ulster County Legislative Chairman Peter J. Savago indicated that a total of $19,595 will be spent to provide organized youth activities.

Milton Luger, director of the Division for Youth, expressed his satisfaction with the growing interest in the development of community youth programs around the state. He noted that the same amount of state aid furnished by the state has increased from $6.5 million in 1968 to $8.1 million last year, for the establishment, operation and maintenance of more than 1,450 youth projects.

Gov. Rockefeller commented that the County of Ulster is to be commended for joining more than 1,250 municipalities in this effort through a phase of the Division for Youth Program.

Dear Abby

Silicone... Answer To Sagging Dreams?

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who is about my age, 55. Adele lost her husband last year, so she went to California for the winter to visit her sister. When Adele came back, nobody recognized her. She looked like a 25-year-old girl. And beautiful! She had a whole new face and a new figure. It was unbelievable! Adele admitted to having her face lifted, which was obvious, but she said she also had her bust and behind lifted!

Now I have heard of silicone implants to lift and fill out sagging breasts, but I have never heard of anyone having her behind lifted, have you?

What kind of doctor does this work? I would really like to know because if it can be done I might want to have mine lifted.

LOW SLUNG IN BROOKLYN
DEAR LOW: Yes, it can be done. Some plastic surgeons do it. Since Adele appears to speak so frankly about it, ask her who lifted her behind. She'll probably be glad to tell you unless she intends to sit on it forever.

DEAR ABBY: This is the first letter I have ever written to your column, but your reply to the woman who wondered if she should make a report when she saw a pocketbook being stolen really hit home.

When I learned that my teen-age daughter (and her friends) were stealing clothes from the local department store, I called the store's protection office and tearfully requested an appointment to bring my daughter in with the clothes. The merchandise was priced, and I paid for it. My daughter was given a stern lecture and told what would happen to her if she ever repeated this act in their store again. And I, incidentally, was told by the young lady in the store's protection office that in the two years she had worked there I was the first mother ever to do this, even tho she was certain that there were other mothers who had found strange merchandise in their homes that they knew their money did not buy.

Abby, that was four years ago, and I thank God that I had the backbone to do what I did because from that day to this I have never had any reason to suspect my daughter of taking a penny that does not belong to her. It was a bitter lesson for both of us, but an effective one.

I would like to quote the words from a sign I saw in the protection office on the eventual day:
"To watch a crime in silence is to commit it."

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

I have written several times about the advantages and disadvantages of the title "Ms." One of the latter is the fact that it is difficult or awkward to pronounce. An editorial printed in the Christian Science Monitor titled "Dear Ms. Post," seconded my view. Here, in essence, is what the article said, and it clearly points out one of the serious limitations of "Ms."

The writer, after feeling pleased with herself when he used "Ms." in answering a letter signed "Mary Jones" with no title, then found that she had reason to telephone Mary Jones, a teacher. But she still had no clue as to her professional or marital status. Did she have a Ph.D.? Was she a professor? Was she married or single?

She hesitated to call Mary "Doctor" in case she had no earned degree, nor could she use "professor" if Mary was simply a junior instructor. "Miz" sounded as sloppy to the writer as it does to me. She came to no conclusion but merely suggested that I write a book on liberated etiquette for those who "find it very difficult to be polite in the middle of a revolution."

I offer no conclusion either. I simply want to reiterate that before you drop the pronounceable, helpfully, informative title of "Miss" and "Mrs." in favor of "Ms." think twice about how you plan to say it.

Dear Mrs. Post:

A friend of my daughter was recently married in a small church wedding. Immediately after, the bride and groom left for their home in another state. There was no reception or anything. I say the friends and guests were treated rudely by such behavior. What is the rule for receptions after a wedding held in a church?

CARLA

Dear Carla:

There is no rule which says that a bride and groom must have a reception. However, they should have stood at the back of the church to greet their guests and receive congratulations. This would have taken the place of a formal receiving line at a reception and would have indicated their appreciation of their friends' presence.

My booklet "How to Plan and Budget Your Wedding" is ideal for brides-to-be, their fiancés and parents in helping to prepare for the perfect wedding. To get a copy, send thirty-five cents in coins to cover booklet and mailing expenses, to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper.

Legion Auxiliary Plans Bake Sale

Members of Lamouree-Hackett American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 72, Saugerties, are making plans for a Spring Bake Sale to be held on Friday, April 14, at the Grand Union Market on Market Street. The sale will begin at 10 a. m. and continue until all the home baked foods are sold. Funds derived from this endeavor will enable the auxiliary to sponsor a Saugerties High School Junior girl to attend The Empire Girls State conference to be held in Albany in June. As always the organization calls upon the members to be generous in their contributions to the sale and the public to aid the organization in its charitable efforts by supporting the sale. Any person desiring to have a contribution picked up may call on one of the members or co-chairmen. Mrs. Agnes Schaffer, Mrs. Virginia Whitaker or Mrs. Rita Sachs.

At the March meeting, Mrs. Evelyn Carnright, president, announced the afghan project has been discontinued. One final afghan is now on display in the social room of the Legion Hall. It will be awarded to one of the many persons who contributed to a cash fund being collected for projects which help to make the veteran comfortable during his stay at Albany Veterans Hospital.

Mrs. Ann Johnson, coupon chairman, reported that cash value coupons worth $103.48 had been collected during the past month and that Betty Crocker coupons would again be collected. As chairman of the unit, she reported that one floral arrangement had been sent to an ill member and one sympathy card to another.

Mrs. Schaffer, rehabilitation chairman, announced that her collections included 189 pocket books worth $79.60, 23 decks of cards; seven pairs of eye glasses, worth $90; plus 1752 tea bag tags; 668 canceled stamps. She also reported that a contribution to a subscription to the Sporting News had been made for a local boy serving in Viet Nam.

Mrs. Catherine Teetsell, cancer control chairman, reported that 17 pounds of white material and 19 white shirts had been collected for this cause.

The next meeting will be held at the Legion Hall, John Street, on April 13, 8 p. m. Members are urged to attend. The latest report on the Girls State representative will be given by chairman, Miss Charlotte Bell, and the celebration of Unit 72's 50th anniversary in September will be discussed.

Spring Art Show Scheduled At IBM Gallery, Poughkeepsie

The annual spring show sponsored by the Art Depot Guild of Artists will open officially Sunday, April 9, at IBM Country Club Gallery, South Road, Poughkeepsie. A reception is planned from 2 to 5 p. m. The show will continue through April 27. Heywood Cohen, president, is assisted by the following committee chairman: Mrs. Constance Knittle, reception: Miss Deborah Cook, catalogue: Miss Carole Leib, hanging: Mrs. Bomey Goldstein, exhibits: and Mrs. Nancy Marasch, publicity.

More than 70 new works in a variety of media will be presented by the ADGA membership. The public is invited to attend.

Volunteer Workers at Benedictine Hospital Contribute Record Number of Hours

The stimulation and interest that volunteer work inspires has led 265 women and men to serve Benedictine Hospital and its patients during the past year with a record number of hours contributed, according to Mrs. Betty Valeo, director of volunteer services.

Volunteers include members of the Benedictine Hospital Auxiliary, the Candy Striper Program, members of the Kingston Junior League and others who have been engaged in such activities as touring the hospital with a gift cart, operating the gift shop in the hospital lobby, and delivering mail and flowers.

They have also been providing an escort service for newly admitted patients, making favors for patient dinner trays for special occasions, conducting a photo service for parents of newborn, decorating the hospital for Christmas and distributing books from the patient and personnel library.

In addition, much time has been contributed to all areas of nursing services, including physical therapy, pediatrics and X-Ray departments as well as dietary assistance and aid with medical records in the business office.

Other groups contributing their services included members of the John A. Coleman Chorus, Regina Coeli Girl Scout Troop, Girl Scout Troop 141 and a guitar and singing group from the new New Paltz Middle School as well as members of Ulster County REACT.

The record of volunteer hours is as follows:

Giving 1,000 hours, Mrs. David Greenwald and Mrs. William Krum.

Donating 500 hours or more, Mrs. Knute Beichert, Mrs. Ronald O'Neil, Mrs. Gale Brownlee.

Giving 300 hours, Mrs. Philip Battaglia, Mrs. Edward Coppo, Mrs. Raymond Davis, Mrs. Richard Dillon, Mrs. George Ford, Mrs. Warren Myer, Mrs. Jay O'Neil, Mrs. Richard Rafferty, Mrs. William Ryan, Mrs. Anthony Vicevich, Mrs. Richard Stephens, Miss Peggy Lyle.

Speaker for Tri-Sisterhood Meeting

The annual Tri-Sisterhood Meeting for members of Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel, Sisterhood of Congregation Agudas Achim, and Sisterhood of Ahavath Israel will be held Wednesday, April 12 at 8 p.m. at Congregation Ahavath Israel, 100 Lucas Avenue. Sisterhood Ahavath Israel, the host group, has announced that guest speaker will be Jack M. Sable, Commissioner of the State Division of Human Rights.

Sable served as Commissioner of Human Rights, New York State's highest office in the administration of anti-discrimination law, since April 1, 1971, following his appointment by Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Urban Poverty Programs

Prior to this appointment he had been Director of the New York State Office for Community Affairs where he was involved with urban poverty programs. Earlier, Commissioner Sable served as Director of the New York State Office of Economic Opportunity, the State's anti-poverty agency, which he had joined as Metropolitan Area Director.

About the Folks

Mrs. Florence Celuch of John Street, Kingston, has returned home after a stay at St. Peter's Hospital in Albany.

Chairman of the Interdepartmental Committee on Human Rights, which seeks to promote the concepts and implementation of human rights within the various agencies of State government, and set an example for the private sector. He is also chairman of the Interdepartmental Committee on Migrant Labor and serves as vice-chairman of the Social Development Planning Commission.

Sable is a member of the State Advisory Council on Continuing Higher Education, a delegate to the White House Conference on Children, and a delegate to the White House Conference on Aging.

He was appointed to the National Model Cities Advisory Committee in April 1970 by George Romney, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

Commissioner Sable served as Chairman of the National State Economic Opportunity Office Directors' Association from July 1968 to September 1969, and is a former member of the New York State Drug Addiction Council.

Social Planner

As a social planner, Sable was a lecturer on the Graduate Faculty of Hunter College in the Department of Political Science (Urban Planning). He is a member of the American Society of Public Administration, the Civil Service Employees Association, the Reserve Officers Association of the United States, Council of Jewish Organizations in Civil Service, and a host of other religious and civic organizations.

During his incumbency as State Commissioner of Human Rights, Commissioner Sable has formulated and implemented a wide range of innovative programs, designed to further the concept of the dignity of each individual in our pluralistic society. These efforts have won for him acclaim from a broad spectrum of racial, religious and ethnic organizations.

Among other expressions of recognition, Commissioner Sable has been honored by civil service groups, veterans associations, youth and education organizations for his outstanding contributions to advancement in a wide range of human endeavors.

A native of Kingston, he attended the public school system here before pursuing studies at Yeshiva University in New York leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Arts, Master of Science and Doctor of Philosophy.

He served in the U.S. Air Force during the Korean conflict, and is currently a Lieutenant Colonel in the U.S. Air Force Reserve.

Commissioner Sable resides in the Bronx with his wife, the former Elissa Glickman of San Francisco, and their three children.

Husbands of Sisterhood members are also invited to the meeting.

Sarazen Thinks This Is Year for Nicklaus Slam

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—Gene Sarazen, one of those rare golfers who, at one point or another managed to win the Masters, the U.S. Open, the PGA and the British Open, thinks Jack Nicklaus will never have a better chance than now to win all four of those tournaments in the same year.

"Every golfer has certain tracks on which he plays at his best," said Sarazen some 40 years after he was at the peak of his game.

"First, of course, Jack must win here at the Masters. But he has won this tournament three times before and the course has never played more to his liking than it is playing at the moment.

"The fairways are playing long and the greens are playing fast—and that's the way Jack likes it."

Sarazen, now 70 years old, points out that should Nicklaus, as favored, win the Masters here this week, he'll be playing the U.S. Open at Pebble Beach (Calif.) where he won the Crosby back in January; the PGA at Oakland Hills (Mich.) where he has always done well; and the British Open also is being played on a course where Nicklaus has won before.

"Actually," continued Sarazen, "a golfer like Jack Nicklaus does better in a tournament like the Masters or the U.S. Open than at places like Jacksonville or Pensacola."

"Sponsors at many of the regular tour stops want low scores," said Sarazen. "They like the fairways to play short and they water the greens so the ball will hold."

"But you take" tournaments like this one or the Open. They aren't concerned about how high the scores might be. They want to offer the best challenge they can provide and this means a course on which the best golfers play best."

Sarazen, who won his last major title (Masters) way back in 1935, doesn't feel that the situation has changed much in that regard in 50 years.

"There have always been three or four golfers who were better than all the others and who have always been favored when the big tournaments rolled around. In my day it was people like Bobby Jones and Walter Hagan (he modestly omitted himself); later it was Sam Snead and Ben Hogan; and in more modern times it has been Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Billy Casper.

"Now, with Palmer and Casper both past 40, it's Nicklaus and Lee Trevino," Sarazen went on. "Oh, others will win from time to time. But look at the record, you've got to list Nicklaus and Trevino as the this week."

You would never tell by looking at him that Gene Sarazen is now 70 years old. His carriage is erect, his face is deeply tanned and there is little gray in his coal-black hair.

"Thanks to the improved courses and improved equipment, I can still play a pretty decent round," said Sarazen. "I usually do well for about 15 holes but now days there are always two or three holes I can't handle."

"The other day, playing at home, I was 5 under going into the final two holes but I tired and closed with a couple of double bogeys."

It has been 37 years (1935) since Gene Sarazen won the Masters by making up three strokes on the final four holes with a double eagle and then beating Craig Wood by five strokes in a 36-hole playoff.

Prior to that, he won the U.S.

Open twice (1922, 1932), the British Open (1932) and the PGA three times (1922, 1923, 1933), favorites for the Masters here.

Sarazen, who is appearing in his 33rd Masters this week, was the oldest player ever to survive the 36-hole Masters cut when he made it at age 61 in 1963.

That's all past now. Sarazen shot 83-80 last year and probably won't do any better this week.

"My day is gone," Sarazen said philosophically. "But it's still a thrill to get out there for a couple of days with the best," (1933).

Chaps Yell Foul After ABA Loss

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Dallas coach Tom Nissalke says his American Basketball Association team went through four quarters of a football game Monday night instead of the second game in a best-of-seven Western Division semifinal series.

"They play football out there," cracked the Chaparrals coach after taking his second Dallas had two players with six fouls and out of action, three foul stars, 113-107. "If with five fouls and two with four."

Countered Utah Coach Ladell Andersen: "This is the way they elected to go. It almost worked, but we're going to hit him with 36 points. He hit Utah's 80 to 90 percent from the foul line. There should have been at least twice as many fouls as were called."

It was veteran super-Star back in the series Wednesday Willie Wise who pulled the game out for Utah.

Down twice by 15 points, the Stars roared back in the final period, mostly on the arching shot of Wise, who ended with 36 points. He hit Utah's last six points for the victory.

It's Penguins and Hawks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Pittsburgh Penguins, having earned a National Hockey League playoff berth by the skin of their teeth over the weekend, aim to make the most of their opportunity when they open their West Division semifinal series against the Black Hawks at Chicago Wednesday night.

"They'll know they've been in the playoffs when we're finished," predicted Pittsburgh rookie Dave Burrows, unaware by the fact that the Black Hawks finished first in the West by a whopping 19 points.

The two East Division semifinal playoffs also get underway Wednesday night. First-place Boston hosts fourth-place Toronto and second-place New York hosts third-place Montreal.

Also on Wednesday, second-place Minnesota hosts No. 3 St. Louis in the opening game of the other West Division semifinal.

All series are best four-of-seven games.

"We've been playing playoff hockey for the last month," declared Burrows.

Of their last 11 games, the Penguins lost only one, winning five and tying five.

Even so, it came down to the final weekend between Pittsburgh and Philadelphia for the fourth and final playoff berth in the West. The Penguins stayed alive by tying Philadelphia 4-4 Saturday night on a goal by Greg Polis with 47 seconds left in the game.

Pittsburgh earned the berth the following night by beating St. Louis 6-2 while Buffalo, after trailing 2-0, came back to sink Philadelphia 3-2 on Gerry Meehan's 30-foot shot with four seconds to go. The teams finished with identical 26-38-1 records, but Pittsburgh got the playoff spot because the Penguins took the season series from Philadelphia 3-2-1.

To do well, the Penguins will have to crack Chicago's goal-tending corps, stingiest in the NHL. The Black Hawks' duo of Tony Esposito and Gary Smith won the Vezina Trophy, yielding 2.12 goals per game—166 goals in 78 games.

The Boston injury chart has center Derek Sanderson as "uncertain," defenseman Bobby Orr and wing Ken Hodge as "marginal" and center Phil Esposito as ready for the Bruins' opener against Toronto.

Sanderson, who scored 25 goals this season, entered Massachusetts General Hospital Monday night suffering from colitis.

He will be let out of the hospital to practice and play, but should the condition deteriorate, he'll be forced to remain hospitalized.

Orr has been hampered by knee problems. Hodge bruised an ankle—one he had broken earlier—on Sunday, and Esposito missed Boston's final two regular season games because of stretched knee ligaments.

The Bruins will be out to make up for last year, when they breezed through the regular season but were knocked out of the playoffs by Montreal in the first round.

The Rangers and Canadiens played six high scoring games in the regular season, including a 6-5 decision won by Montreal Sunday. But both clubs think the playoffs to be different.

"I expect you'll see us both play more conservative, close checking hockey in the playoffs," said New York's Vic Hadfield.

"This is going to be a hell of a playoff series," echoed Montreal's Pete Mahovich, "but it won't be as wide open as the games we played this season. You can't afford to play that wide open kind of hockey in the playoffs."

"We're both fast skating teams with plenty of balance and strength at every position," Mahovich added. "I look for a long series... a series where both teams play more conservatively... a series that might be decided by a break, a mistake, or maybe an injury to a key guy... one hell of a series, whatever kind of play there is."

Minnesota Coach Jack Gordon, whose team dropped a 4-1 decision to last place Vancouver in the regular season finale Sunday night, said he is considering shuffling his lines for the playoff against St. Louis.

The only unit that's sure to remain intact is the line of J.P. Parise, Jude Drouin and Bill Goldsworthy, which took nine of Minnesota's 27 shots on goal against Vancouver. Gordon wouldn't comment on his plans for the other lines.

Minnesota fell short of breaking two St. Louis records in the regular season. The Blues hold the marks for most wins, 38, and most points, 88, for an expansion team. Minnesota finished with 37 victories and 86 points.

But if the North Stars are upset at missing those records, they can take it out on the Blues in the playoffs.

The Nets will be out to repeat their 122-108 upset in the series opener Sunday, the Floridians will be seeking to fight back from a 2-0 deficit in their series while the Denver-Indiana series is tied 1-1.

In National Basketball Association semifinal playoff games, Boston is at Atlanta and New York at Baltimore in the Eastern Conference, while Los Angeles plays at Chicago and Milwaukee at Golden State in the Western Conference action.

Boston holds a 2-1 lead over Atlanta. New York and Baltimore are tied one game apiece. Los Angeles has a commanding 3-0 lead over Chicago and Milwaukee, after dropping the series opener, has come back to take a 2-1 lead over Golden State.

Little Hopeful On Eve of Surger

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Gene Littler, who six years ago said he had resigned himself to the fact that he wasn't going to be the world's greatest golfer, isn't resigning himself to the fact that cancer may have ended his professional playing days.

"We're all holding good thoughts," he said on the eve of surgery at Mercy Hospital today. He has cancer of the lymph glands.

Littler, 41, said a malignant tumor was removed from under his left arm March 15 and now doctors want to see if the disease has spread.

"It's highly unpredictable," the former winner of the U.S. Open said Monday. "They may not find anything. The test results have been pretty good so far."

Littler's wife, Shirley said: "All the signs are good. We're very hopeful, very confident."

But Littler said a question marks hangs over his 18-year career.

"There is a good chance it may interfere permanently with my golf, though nobody really knows," he said during an interview.

2793 ABC Score For Wilber Team

KINGSTON — Anchored by Big Bob Sheltner's 224-593, Leon Wilber & Son bowlers of Kingston rolled an in-the-money 2793 in the annual American Bowling Congress tournament at Long Beach, California.

The local keglers also hit the jackpot in doubles, singles and all-events. A poor 867 middle game deprived Wilber's of the chance to climb higher in the standings. The team opened with a 944 and finished with 982. All bowlers were over the 500 mark, as James Johnson posted 548, Robert Burgher 528, Harry Wilber 552, and Jim Rose 572. Rose (629) and Sheltner (560) combined for 1189 doubles, while Wilber (621) and Johnson (540) totalled 1161. Both scores are in the money.

The two singles scores in the money were Sheltner's 585 and Wilber's 582. Three of the Wilber bowlers figure to cash in all-events—Wilber 1755, Rose 1750 and Sheltner 1738.

Robert Canavan Bowlers Powder Puff Champions

KINGSTON — Robert Canavan Real Estate won 53 games and lost 32 to finish 2 1/2 games ahead of Bertha Galley, Inc., in the race for the 1971-72 Powder Puff bowling league title.

Canavan's also captured high team single with 591. Best team series was Paul Walker Excavating's 1635. Individual highs were Carol Piper's 241, Doris Reynolds' 554.

Janet Crosswell led the individual averages with 154. Following in order were: Doris Reynolds 153, Marge McCutcheon 152, Jo Smith 148, Jane Berthoff 147, Jean Goldpaugh 146, Robert Piper 144, Winnie Overfield 136, Nancy Broskie 135.

Your Horoscope

Wednesday, April 5

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are under some pressure, but can carry through very well and be the winner just the same. Try to help those who are having some rough sledding. You have the right answer to their problems.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Your judgment is rather poor today so do not try to pass it along to others or you both get into trouble. Be clever even though the cards may seem stacked against you. Then you win out easily.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You are thinking negatively and could get yourself into all sorts of trouble, so take time to compose yourself early in the a.m. Then you can carry through admirably the rest of the day and p.m. Drive with care.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are feeling discontented and can therefore come up with some fine new ideas you know are right which improve your future. Make the changes necessary in a positive way. Stop struggling so hard.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Impress others with the fact that you can discharge obligations in a most accurate way and gain their respect and approval. There is no need to argue so much with associates. Listen more to what they have to say and stop being so opinionated.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have to study those plans more carefully before you talk them over with partners and come to the right agreement. Newcomers have fine ideas, so listen and understand them instead of just pretending to do so. Gain.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) That mood to do nothing while duties await you is just a state of mind, so change it. You are one who can persevere and be thorough, and this is the time to do just that. Your planets are testing you — be equal to the test.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) What makes you think you can leave important work and let others down just so you can have extracurricular fun? Get down to business, forget the temper and by p.m. you will have the last laugh, instead of vice versa. Stop being the goat, actually.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are apt to treat family most contemptuously if you don't get hold of yourself and realize that your loyalty belongs at home. Faults there are small. Eliminate these quietly and kindly.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Control yourself and stop rushing around, talking too fast, saying the wrong things. Show you have your feet squarely on the ground. An ounce of control can save the day, p.m. for you, and others who depend on you as well. Wisdom.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she could very well be one of those fortunate youngsters unfortunate enough to be born in actual need. From this temporary background can come the fortitude and the will to succeed lacking in those with the silver spoon in the mouth who often fail to take it out on time and therefore do not know the ingredients for success, unless good fortune is forcibly taken away. Look for fame in this chart.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

A PROBLEM: (Q) I have quite a problem. I am 13½ years old and in the eighth grade. I really don't think I should tell you what it is because it would be better if I tell it to a doctor.

Maybe it's just growing up. I would feel kind of funny if I told it to a friend, relative or even my mother or father. This problem embarrasses me very much, especially in school while I am in gym. I would like to go to the doctor and tell him my problem, but how do I reach him or what do I say?

How will I pay the bill without my parents finding out? Sorry I can't tell you what it is. I hope you can help me. — Jim in Connecticut.

(A.) Jim, we all have problems. We have to live with them, or work them out ourselves, or get someone to help us with them.

If we won't tell anybody what our problem is, we can't get help with it.

I think if your problem is severe enough you will find a way to tell your parents, or your doctor, or me, or someone.

If you decide the doctor is the one to tell, look him up in the telephone book, call his office and make an appointment. If you decide I'm the one to tell, you know where to write. If you decide your father or mother is the one, you know where they are.

NONSURPRISE: (Q.) My friend is having a surprise party. The only thing is that she knows about it. She told my other friend and me to come.

But her sister passed out invitations to the party and she didn't give my friend or me one.

I need some quick advice. The party is going to be very soon. Should I go or not go? — In a Hurry in Ohio.

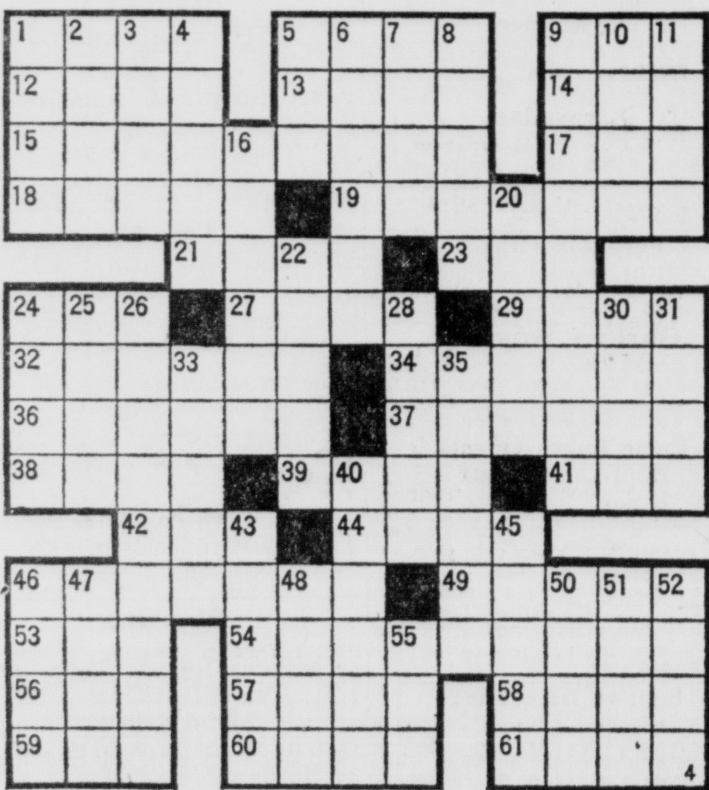

(A.) Your friend seems to have a good bit of information. Tell her about not getting a written invitation and ask her if her sister or mother or whoever is giving the party has a guest list and if your name is on it.

If it's not, don't go. If your friend doesn't know whether there's a guest list, don't go.

Harrisburg Review Continues

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The Harrisburg Seven jury, still deadlocked, is reviewing again the complicated conspiracy evidence against antiwar priest Philip Berrigan and six others accused of plotting to kidnap White House aide Henry A. Kissinger.

Deliberations moved into their sixth day today following Monday night's reading for a third time of the trial judge's instructions on conspiracy, the key count against the seven peace activists.

Defense lawyers, who had complained about the wording the first time and objected when it was read again, un-cessfully renewed their protest after U.S. District Court Judge R. Dixon Herman went over the 14-minute conspiracy definition once more.

"This charge is contradictory, irrelevant to the issues, grossly confusing and repetitious," said attorney J. Thomas Manaker.

Herman told the jury "a conspiracy can be found even if the purpose of the conspiracy is never accomplished" as long as the prosecution can show it was "willfully formed" and that two or more persons "willfully participated."

After the third reading the jury of nine women and three men returned to its motor hotel, having completed 43 hours of deliberations in five days.

Earlier, at its request, the jury heard the judge repeat his instructions on:

—The federal law covering possession and use of explosives.

—The mailing of a letter that contained a threat to kidnap.

—Circumstantial evidence.

—Entrapment as a defense against a criminal charge.

These, too, were read over defense objections.

On Sunday, the jury reported that it had reached a unanimous decision on one of the 10 counts in the indictment.

This partial verdict, accepted by the judge, convicted Berrian of smuggling one letter out of the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., when he was imprisoned there.

In addition to the Kissinger scheme, the seven are charged with conspiring in 1970 to blow up the tunnel heating system in Washington and to vandalize draft board offices—all part of a plan, the government claims, to force the United States out of Vietnam.

The bombing and kidnapping projects, allegedly set for Washington's Birthday 1971, never happened. But there were draft board raids for which some of the defendants have taken responsibility.

SWEET DUTY — Robert Ingersoll is about to receive a kiss from his daughter, Elizabeth, after he was sworn in Monday in Washington, D. C., as the new U. S. ambassador to Japan. The new envoy's wife can barely be seen in the background. Ingersoll is former chairman of the board of the Borg-Warner Corp., of Chicago. (UPI)

Photog Testifies at Davis Trial

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—A news photographer who snapped action pictures of the seizure of hostages and the shootings at the San Rafael courthouse said Monday that the captors told him plainly in the corridor that the "Soledad Brothers" must be freed. He said he wrote the two words down.

James J. Kean, who rushed to the scene after hearing a short-wave police emergency call, was followed to the stand at the Angela Davis trial Monday by three officers who told similar versions of demands that the Soledad trio be released or the hostages would be killed.

The trial was recessed until Wednesday because of the funeral of the father of one of the jurors.

The prosecution was pounding away at its contention that the August, 1970, San Rafael events were part of a conspiracy to free San Quentin convict George Jackson and that Miss Davis was an active party to the plot in which Judge Harold Haley was killed.

The state also introduced evidence tying the 28-year-old former UCLA philosophy instructor to the case when it produced six books, two of them bearing her name on an inside page, which were found in a briefcase on the floor of the would-be getaway van.

The testimony by Kean, a photographer for the San Rafael Independent Journal, was the most telling the state has produced.

Kean said that when he entered the corridor with his camera, convict William Christmas told him to "take all the pictures you want—we are the revolutionaries." Kean said he snapped away, taking about 25 photos, and that convict James McClain said "be sure and get a good picture."

Kean said McClain at the time had a sawed-off shotgun pointed at the judge's head. Kean identified a picture in court as the one he took. He said the captors—who also included Ruchel Magee and 17-year-old Jonathan Jackson—started to go to the elevators to leave the building.

"Then McClain said to tell them 'We want the Soledad Brothers released by 12 o'clock.' I asked him to repeat it and he did. And I said, 'So there will be no mistake, did you mean 12 o'clock today or 12 o'clock midnight,' and he said, '12 o'clock today' and I wrote down the words Soledad Brothers on a notebook page.

Kean did not go with the hostages into the elevator but ran to a balcony where he took pictures of the van starting out of the lot and then pictures of the dead and injured after the shooting was over.

Sheriff's Captain Harvey Teague, who was also in the corridor at the time, said just before the elevator closed and descended with the convicts and hostages, he heard one of the captors say: "Free the Soledad Brothers and all political prisoners." He said he could not say who the speaker was.

Dita Beard MDs Face Questions

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate investigators probably will have more questions for ITT lobbyist Dita D. Beard's doctors as a result of her decision to do a 90-minute television interview.

Mrs. Beard's physicians had indicated last week it would be six months before she would be able physically to testify before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

In its investigation of International Telephone & Telegraph and Attorney General-designate Richard G. Kleindienst.

On March 26 she met with a delegation of committee members for questions at her Denver hospital, but suffered a recurrence of her heart trouble and doctors ended the session.

This Sunday, however, she left her hospital for an undisclosed location at which she taped an interview with CBS correspondent Mike Wallace.

"Her television interview raises very serious questions about the consistency of the medical position," a lawyer on the Judiciary Committee staff said Monday. He said he had not discussed the matter with committee members but "they must be wondering what's going on ... the questioning by Wallace was at least as persistent as that of the senators."

The Judiciary panel was not scheduled to resume its deliberations until Thursday, at which time Republicans planned to move to end the investigation of allegations that ITT's offer to help subsidize this summer's GOP National Convention was linked to an out-of-court settlement of an antitrust case against ITT.

The investigation has held up confirmation of Kleindienst as President Nixon's attorney general. He was an assistant attorney general at the time the antitrust case was settled.

Sens. John V. Tunney, D-

Calif., and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., both on the Judiciary Committee, said they would fight any effort to end the investigation until they had examined several other witnesses.

On any straight up-or-down vote to call off the investigation, the Republicans probably would win. They could count on the votes of all seven GOP members and probably at least two and maybe four of the nine Democratic members. That would give them a majority of nine or more on the 16-member committee.

But the committee follows the rules of the Senate as a whole, and those rules call for unlimited debate, including filibuster.

Espionage Trial Begins

TYNDALL AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — M. Sgt. Walter Perkins, the ranking noncommissioned officer in the Air Force defense weapons Center intelligence division, goes to trial on espionage charges today.

A 19-year veteran, Perkins is charged with unlawfully taking national defense information which could be to the advantage of a foreign country and attempting to pass that information to unauthorized persons.

He also is charged with giving false, official statements about the destruction of classified documents, the Air Force said.

The Air Force says further that certain information was taken from the center, and the Pentagon has hinted there was some Russian involvement in the case.

Perkins, who was assigned to the center in 1969, was classified to handle secret documents.

Lodged in the base stockade since his arrest last Oct. 18, Perkins has steadfastly denied the charges.

"The man's not guilty, and it's not that hard of a case to show he's not guilty," said Air Force Capt. Clyde W. Russell Jr. Russell is defending Perkins along with Capt. James Orasweller and civilian attorney Henry Rothblatt of New York City.

The prosecution is being handled by Capt. Reinald Werrenrath III and Capt. James Brasfield.

The presiding judge at the military tribunal is Col. Joe Peck of Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala.

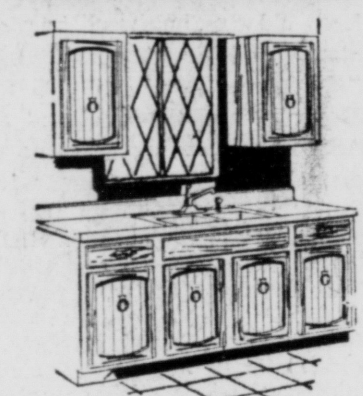

Although Perkins has refused to discuss the case, Russell says his client is confident he will be found innocent.

As for the alleged Russian involvement, Russell said: "I get more of a smile out of it than anything. If it weren't the Russians, it would be China or Cuba or maybe the Bronx in New York."

Perkins, arrest is the first of its kind at the base near Panama City in the Florida Panhandle. The facility is the only weapons center of the Aerospace Defense Command and has a military-civilian population of between 5,000 and 6,000.

If convicted on the charges, Perkins faces a maximum sentence of 13 years in prison and a dishonorable discharge.
